ABOUT US

The world is turning into one big network. New trends and technologies are the basis for a next mission: the development and application of new forms of organization, with the knowledge intensive networking organization being the most prominent. In these networks partnerships, both internal as between organizations, are of great importance.

Strategically networking organizations are of importance. It allows for faster responding to market developments and at the same time risks are shared among partners in the network. A powerful network enables inspiring collaborations, stimulates innovation and leads to new business opportunities.

Flevum is committed to establishing sustainable relationships and networks. The exclusive, small scale meetings of Flevum allow for directors of companies to share knowledge, discuss business opportunities and develop joint thought leadership in numerous areas. Flevum connects people and companies, which is an indispensable platform for corporate business.
